Technogym wins the Compasso d'Oro award with SKILLMILL

SKILLMILL by Technogym - the only non-motorised product that combines power, speed, stamina and agility training – has been awarded the prestigious ADI Compasso d'Oro Award, the oldest and most influential international design award.

The 2018 edition recognised the best excellence of Italian design, from interior design to cars, from technological materials and systems to fitness products that stand out worldwide for their innovation and performance.

ADI's - Industrial Design Association - international committee has chosen SKILLMILL for its innovative design, attention to ergonomics and ease of use. This new award joins the Technogym Palmarès, which includes 3 Compasso D'oro Awards, 13 Red Dot Design Awards, 5 Good Design Awards and 3 iF Awards.

SKILLMILL, designed by Technogym's Style Department, has been created to offer an innovative training solution for sports professionals and for enthusiasts who dedicate themselves every day to fitness and improving athletic performance.

SKILLMILL allows users to experience the full speed-resistance spectrum from resistance-free running to an all-out sled push.

SKILLMILL is capable of training all the body's energy systems in a single solution, from sprinting to power development, for efficient metabolic conditioning; it is fully integrated within mywellness, the Technogym cloud-based training platform. This solution includes a variety of training programs and tools, to offer users training guidance, to monitor and track their results.

As Official Supplier to 7 Olympic Games and partner to the world's best performing teams and athletes, Technogym has gained first-hand experience in the training methods and requirements of elite athletes. This experience is fundamental in the SkillAthletic Training, a completely new training discipline developed by Technogym in the creation of SKILLMILL, which guarantees to expand work capacity, enhance abilities and ensure full safety.
