Nerio Alessandri

Technogym Founder and CEO key comments

"Despite international geopolitical tensions — which directly impact business in certain geographical areas and generate, on a global level, substantial cost increases for components, transportation, and energy — during the first nine months of the year, Technogym continues to grow compared to 2025, which had already been a record year for our company.

We are pleased with the ongoing market success of our products. A standout among these is Technogym Checkup, our AI-driven assessment station, which has just received a Special Mention from TIME for the 100 Best Inventions of 2026. This is joined by Sand Stone, the new collection that redefines the standards of healthy longevity, and Technogym Reform, designed to capitalize on the pilates trend, which is currently experiencing massive momentum.

Furthermore, just in these past few days, RUN X has kicked off in approximately 500 centers worldwide—the first world running championship held on our treadmills. This represents an extraordinary opportunity for the industry to attract the running community into clubs, as it is one of the largest and most active sports communities globally.

As previously anticipated during the half-year report, 2026 is a transition year aimed at implementing the necessary changes to achieve the Technogym Vision 2031, ushering in a new era for Technogym: from Wellness to Healthness. This will be a record year in terms of investments to build the Healthness Lab at the Technogym Village and the new production plant in Slovakia, as well as strengthen our most vital asset, the Technogym team.

Looking ahead, the growing interest from both consumers and operators in wellness and healthy longevity makes us confident for the remainder of the year and the start of 2027".
